

Entertainment / Comfort.

God of extravagance, who captures my attention and my heart,

I need distraction from myself. The thoughts and feelings that tumble through my head are often too painful to hear. Instead, I chase after entertainment, finding it in movies and books and music and video games, anything that keeps me from hearing Your thundering whisper.

You came to give abundant life, and as an abundantly creative Artist, You made me and the world around me as a source of joy. In spite of my pain, the joys of this world were meant to inspire my own creativity, not keep me from it.

Quiet the noise around me, and let me hear Your voice. I want the abundant life You came to give me.
